City Council Citizen Committees Planned By Council

Albany City Councilmen Monday night discussed plans for citizen committees to deal with the waterfront; affirmative action for hiring minority and disadvantaged in public and private sectors; a Sister City program, and charter revision.

Charter revision was the subject of much discussion during the evening. It was decided to permit citizens to have a say in how the committee should be constituted during a public hearing next Monday.

This week's meeting moved right along through a two and a half page agenda. In what must be an unprecedented action, a citizen (Robert Elliott) was successful in making changes in the minutes of the previous meeting.

Councilman George Hein was absent. Mayor Richard Clark had to leave at 9:30, so the end of the meeting was conducted by Vice Mayor Michael Gleason with three members present.

A letter from Elliott called for the resignation or dismissal of Administrative Officer James B. Turner on the grounds he is not a resident of Albany. This brought Hal Denham, manager of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, to his feet to commend Turner and give him a vote of confidence on behalf of the Chamber. In doing so, Denham made a few unflattering remarks about the writer of the letter. This in turn outraged Dario Meniketti, who called for an end to personal attacks. Vice Mayor Gleason agreed personalities should not be discussed in Council sessions. The letter was referred to the future charter revision committee because Elliott stated it indicates in the charter that the city engineer should be a resident after appointment because it says he need not be a resident at the time of appointment. City Attorney Lawrence D. Saler disagreed with this premise.

In other action Monday night, Council:

CANVASED the votes for Board of Education as the result of a recount, passing a resolution naming Jack Rosano to the Board, following which Rosano was sworn in by City Clerk Patricia George.

WELCOMED members of the Advanced English as a Second Language classes from Albany Adult School, who attended the meeting.

PASSED resolutions supporting Proposition 1, Parks Bond Measure, urging a yes vote on June 4; supporting the City of Chino asking for state tax relief for open space and conservation purposes, and confirming four appointments to boards and commissions reported last week.

NAMED Gleason as permanent representative to the Manpower Agency and East Bay Waterfront Planning committee; Patrick Griffin to County Library committee, local Library Board of Trustees, and delegate to Association of Bay Area Governments general assembly. Griffin named John Storms to the Traffic and Safety commission.

APPROVED a temporary tax permit to Frank Butler, an increase in rates for Veteran's Yellow Cab of Richmond; proclamation of May 1 as "Law Day, U.S.A.," May 12-18 as "National Transportation Week" and May 17-18 as "Poppy Days"; a resolution of support for State Proposition 3 ($350 million Cal-Vet Bond Measure, which will not increase taxes); installation of a mercury vapor street light on Peralta, south of Solano; transfer application of Elias Mitri of Vin et Fromage; hiring of an engineer inspector for sewers and stenographer requested by Turner.

FILED a report of the City Clerk that no refunds for cost of printing statements by candidates would be made and a communication from Turner including the cat licensing ordinance from Fremont, which indicates licensing of cats creates many problems.

REFERRED to the Chief of Police an application for on-sale beer and wine for Margarita's, 1406 Solano.

ACCEPTED the resignation of Lottie Moody Sandford from the Albany Library Board and Albany Beautification and Improvement committee. A resolution will be prepared.

The meeting adjourned at 11:12 p.m.

Jack Rosano In For School Board

Jack Rosano

Jack Rosano, incumbent member of the Board of Education who originally appeared to have lost to Jess Tenret by one vote and came out 16 votes ahead in last week's recount, was sworn in in a solo ceremony at Albany City Council session Monday night.

Councilmen first canvassed the recount and passed a resolution naming Rosano to the Board.

Warning From Health Department

U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare notified all health departments in a bulletin dated April 19 that goat skin leather drums from Haiti were the source of Anthrax in a Florida woman earlier this year. Because of this all drums from Haiti are excluded at U.S. ports and people with such drums should turn them in to their local health department immediately, stated Harold Van Coops, deputy health officer of Albany.

Note of Thanks

To all my friends and acquaintances of Albany, I would like to thank you for re-electing me to the Board of Trustees of Albany Unified School District for my third term.

I have in the past attempted to represent all citizens of Albany in promulgating the best educational objectives for all children. I will continue to do so for the next four years.

Cancer Drive May 2-5

Albany volunteers of the American Cancer Society paid a visit to the BART system last week, and were given a tour of the Berkeley Station. Looking toward a future in which mass transportation solves the traffic problem, the ACS crusade leaders also anticipate a future free of the threat of cancer. The theme of the agency's 1974 fund drive is "We Want to Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime." A door-to-door collection will take place in Alameda county communities May 2-5. Almost 400 Albany residents have been enlisted to call on their neighbors to support the effort, which will help continue vital cancer control programs of patient service and rehabilitation, research and education. The goal for the residential campaign in Alameda County is $110,000.

Wednesday Preps bowling league by hitting a 192 in the second game. Her first score was 169. More trophies to add to her collection!

CONGRATULATIONS to Christopher Bell, who is one of six high school seniors from four Western states to receive a Paul Garrett scholarship from Whitman college in Walla Walla, Wash.

IT'S A FIRST — and they'd like your support. Les Rogers and Jack McFarland are planning to take their seventh grade classes and Alice Preston's class at Middle School to Science Camp at Yosemite Valley May 20-24. They are raising money for a scholarship fund for students otherwise unable to attend by holding a paper drive Saturday, May 4. If you have papers to donate, call Rogers at 526-6513 or McFarland at 222-2353 and a student will come by to pick them up. About 12 adults will accompany the youngsters.

WHY NUCLEAR POWER IS THE SOLUTION TO THE ENERGY PROBLEM.

The electric energy problem here in California is simply a matter of oil and natural gas shortages. The problem is going to plague us for some time to come, unless other forms of energy are used. The solution is to use energy wisely and to build more nuclear power plants. Nuclear plants are safe. They are practical. They are economical. They are environmentally clean. But they take time to build—about ten years.

There's no mystery about nuclear power plants. There are 44 operating in the United States; more than that among other nations of the world. There are more than 100 nuclear-powered ships in the U.S. Navy; even more in other fleets. The nuclear industry has hundreds of reactor years of successful operating experience. The technology is proven.

Some people have questions about nuclear power. Some people give incorrect answers to those questions.

We at PG&E have had long experience with nuclear plants. We believe firmly in them. So do other utilities, world-wide, both government-owned and investor-owned. And so does the overwhelming majority of the scientific community.

Brownouts and blackouts can happen here.

NUCLEAR POWER AND THE FUEL SHORTAGE

At present most of PG&E's steam-electric power plants burn scarce and very expensive low-sulfur oil to generate electricity. We will have to buy about 20 million barrels this year and 35 million next year to meet our customers' electric energy needs. Our two-unit Diablo Canyon Nuclear Power Plant, now under construction in San Luis Obispo County, will displace a need for an additional 24 million barrels of oil every year in the future.

Delays in construction schedules of these and other nuclear units—delays, for a variety of reasons, over which utilities generally have little control—have had much to do with bringing about today's electric energy problems in California.

While nuclear power plants cannot solve the problem immediately, they can in time. As more come into service, they will free up large amounts of oil, significantly alleviating the aggravating long-range fuel shortage—gasoline and all.

NUCLEAR POWER AND SAFETY

The safety record of commercial nuclear power plants is unmatched in industrial history. Safety systems and their back-up systems function efficiently. There have been no nuclear-caused deaths. Not even a significant injury. (For comparison, about 54,000 Americans are killed every year in auto accidents; 3,000 die choking on food; 160 are killed by lightning.)

Actually, fissionable nuclear fuel for power plants is very dilute—so dilute that it's impossible to create an atomic explosion in a nuclear reactor.

With all the safeguards that are built into each nuclear power plant, the chance of a major accident is about one in a million.

Thousands of men work and live safely on nuclear-powered subs.

NUCLEAR WASTE. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT?

When nuclear fuel is used, nuclear waste is created. But more than 95 per cent of the original fuel is recycled for re-use. The remaining waste is small—so small that such waste from a large nuclear unit operating for 30 years could be contained in a space no larger than a two-car garage. The waste is radioactive; but is treated as such. Very carefully. Safety first.

Used fuel is sealed in heavily-shielded, leak-tight casks and shipped to a facility which specializes in nuclear fuel re-processing. Every safety precaution is taken to insure that no leakage occurs. Shipping and handling are carried out under strict regulations of the AEC and the U.S. Department of Transportation. After processing, the residual waste will be solidified and placed in secure, long-term storage under rigid government control.

NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS AND MARINE LIFE

Some people have voiced concern because some power plants discharge warm water back into natural water bodies. These power plants—whether nuclear or fossil-fueled—use cooling water in steam condensers. In a nuclear plant the cooling water is only about 19° warmer when returned to its source, and otherwise is harmless. Where the water source is large enough and cold enough to receive and assimilate it, like the Pacific Ocean, it has no significant adverse effect on marine life. The only appreciable change is that in the immediate water discharge area the balance between warm water species and cold water species of marine life may shift in favor of those liking warmer water. In fact, after 24 years of scientific study and many more years of operating experience, it is clearly established that marine life near PG&E power plants tends to be more plentiful than it was originally.

Nine nuclear pellets produce as much energy as 30 barrels of oil.

NUCLEAR POWER—CLEAN, ECONOMICAL

For both environmental and economic reasons, nuclear power is the solution to the electrical energy problem.

Most hydroelectric power resources are already developed. Fossil-fueled steam electric plants consume scarce and increasingly costly oil and natural gas. Barring technological breakthroughs, geothermal energy can meet only a small part of future power needs. Fusion power is decades away. And other possible sources of energy, such as solar, tidal and wind power, are in experimental stages of development, and the latter two may never become practical for large-scale use. Coal can supply some help in California over the short run. But nuclear energy is the power source which has arrived.

Nuclear power is economical. For example, the electricity produced at PG&E's Humboldt Bay Nuclear Power Plant for $2.00 would cost $17.20 at a plant burning low-sulfur oil, at today's fuel prices.

Moreover, nuclear power generation is clean. Unlike burned fuels, it releases no combustion products into the environment.

NUCLEAR POWER AND INSURANCE

Some people say that private insurance companies won't cover a nuclear power plant. That's false. Private companies provide $110 million worth of liability insurance for each nuclear power reactor location. There have been no claims against nuclear power reactors. In fact, the insurance companies have been refunding part of the premiums paid by the utilities.

In addition, utilities pay the federal government for indemnity insurance coverage of $450 million for each reactor location.

The federal indemnity program was created by Congress in 1957 (Price-Anderson Act) to help encourage development of a nuclear power industry in the U.S. It has been good business for the taxpayers. And it gives the public greater protection than separate homeowner insurance policies could provide. That's one of the reasons why your homeowner policies have a nuclear exclusion clause.

The government has collected millions in indemnity payments from utilities—about $90,000 a year per large reactor—and has never paid out one cent. No claim has ever been filed.

NUCLEAR POWER AND THE PUBLIC INTEREST

One of the big PG&E nuclear units at Diablo Canyon is planned for service next year, and the other unit in 1976. But it will take about ten years to build additional nuclear capacity—including the time it takes to find and acquire suitable sites and obtain clearances and approvals from more than 30 governmental and public agencies.

Every year of delay exposes all of us to shortages and higher rates, and further drains our diminishing fossil fuel resources.

The energy problem simply must be solved, and nuclear power will go a long way toward solving it. Electrical energy is essential to everybody, and especially to the young people who will be forming families and needing jobs. We don't intend to relax in our efforts to provide adequate and reliable service for all our customers in the future, just as we have provided it in the past. You can help now by conserving energy at home and on the job.

If you or anyone you know would like more information on nuclear power, PG&E will be pleased to provide it. Just write: PG&E Nuclear Information, 77 Beale Street, San Francisco, California 94106.
